A 'spread' = 2 pages. So pictures can be large to cover more than one side (depending on the shape of the image).

The number of images is up to your choice. However we need a balance of number of spreads and number of images, otherwise the images will have to be small to all fit in. It's nice to give the images some space and variety on layout so the pages are different and interesting.

I might have to charge a little bit more if you choose a large number of images – more time for me to arrange, digitally optimize etc.

You need to select a list of the images that you want and maybe your budget. I can comment on how that will work (or not!) with a given size of book. When you are happy, I will design the layout and send you a visual pdf to look at, make any amendments, before we go to print.

Once you have confirmed the layout I will send to the printers and I cannot make further adjustments then. I will need full payment with the order when it goes to print.
